Mysterions Fire in a Hotel.
(By telegraph to the Disputch.)
ST. LOUIS, November 25.—At 2 o'clock this morning fire was discovered in one of the north rooms of the Metropolitan Hotel, on Seventh street. The fire department arrived promptly, but the flames had gained such headway that it required considerable effort to confee them to the building.

One man was taken from his bed nearly suffocated and very serioually burned about the head and body. He was taken to the hospital. A woman was seen at a window on the third floor, but seemed powerless to open it. A fireman threw a cock, breaking the window, and the woman threw herself headforemost to the pavement. She died a few moments later. She was badly burned and had a deep incision on her throat, which looked as though it had been done with a razor. It is thought the building was accidentally set on fire by some woman's lover, although there are rumors that the woman whose throat was cut had been murdered, and that the assassin set fire to the building to cover his orime. erime.

THE POPE'S ENCYCLICAL. Interesting Extracts from the Authentic

In the land of the first full and authentic translation into English of Leo XIII.'s encyclical on the Christian Constitution of States ap-pears very different in its full form from the cable condensations already published.

Instead of condemning in any way

Instead of condemning in any way modern civilization in States as they axist at present, the Pope highly approves of all real progress and true freedom. It is in short an exact reversal of the policy pursued by the late Pius IX. whose encyclicals invariably condemned modern civilization as atheistic and pagan. In order to show this a few extracts will suffice. After cona few extracts will suffice. After con-demning anarchism and lawlessness, Leo XIII. continues: "These, then, are the things taught by the Catholic Church, concerning the constitution and government of the State. No form of government is, per se, condemned so long as it has nothing repugnant to Catholic doctrine and is able, if wisely and justly managed, to preserve the State in the best condition. Nor is it, per se, to be condemned whether the people have a greater or less share in the government; for at certain times and with the guarantee of certain laws, and with the guarantee of certain laws, such participation may appertain not only to the usefulness, but even to the duty of the citizens. Moreover, there is no just cause that any one should condemn the Church as being too restricted in gentleness or inimical to that liberty which is natural and legitimate. In truth, the Church indees it not lawful that the Church judges it not lawful that the various kinds of divine worship should have the same right as the true religion, still it does not therefore condemn those Governors of States who, for the sake of acquiring some great good, or preventing some great ill, patiently bear with manners and customs, so that each kind of religion has its place in the State. Indeed the Church is wont diligently to take heed that no one be compelled against his will to embrace the Catholic faith. For a similar reason the Church cannot approve of that lib-erty which generates a contempt of the most sacred laws of God, and puts away the obedience to legitimate power, for this is license rather than liberty. On the other hand, that liberty is natu in the First North Carolina regiment, ural and to be sought, which, if it be faculty of augmenting public advantages, and defends the public interest from alien rule. This blameless liberty, worthy of man, the Church approves above all, and has never ceased striving and contending to keep firm and whole among the people.

"Therefore, what they say that the Church is jealous of the more modern political systems repudiate in a mass, and whatever the disposition of these times has brought forth is an inane and contemptible calumny. The madness of opinion it indeed repudiates; it reproves the wicked plans of sedition. ounty.

and times very different from each other. "Nevertheless, in the first place, let concord of wills be preserved and the likeness of things to be done sought for, and each will be attained best if all shall consider the admonitions of the Apostolic Sec. Let all understand that Apostolic See. Let all understand that the integrity of Catholic profession can by no means be reconciled with opinions approaching toward naturalism or rationalism, of which the sum total is to uproot Christian institutions altogether and to establish the supremacy of man, Almighty God being pushed on one side. Likewise, it is unlawful to follow one line of duty in private and another in public;

duty in private and another in public; so that the authority of the Church shall be observed in private and spurned in public, for this would be to join together things bonest and disgraceful and to make man fight the battle with and to make man fight the battle with himself, when, on the contrary, he ought always to be consistent with him-self and never in any least thing or manner of living decline from Christian virtue; but if inquiry is made about principles merely political, concerning the best ferm of government, of civil regulations of one kind or another, concerning these things, of course, there is room for disagreement without harm."

ABDUL-HAMID II.,

The Sultan of Turkey was born on September 22, 1842. He is the second son of the Sultan Abdul-Medjid, and the younger brother of Murad V., by whose deposition from the throne, on August 31, 1876, he became sultan. Abdul-Hamid is the thirty-fourth sovereign of Turkey, in male descent, of the house of Othman. Othman, the learned reader will remember, founded the Turkish empire, and the date of his accession was the year 1299.

In his school-days the Sultan manifested a strong taste for geography, and made a vast collection of maps. He was present with his uncle, the Sultan Abdul-Aziz, and his brother, afterwards Murad V., at the Paris Exposition of 1867. Less than a year after tion of 1867. Less than a year after his accession to the throne, on April 21, 1877, Russia declared war against Turkey, which had just brought to a successful termination a war with Servia. In the unequal struggle with Russia the Turkish arms were unsuccessful in the long run, and in February, 1878, an armistice was signed, and the treaty of San Stefano on March 3d of the same year. The results of the war, sanctioned by the great European powers and embodied in the stipulations of the Treaty of Berlin, signed July 13, 1878, greatly reduced the area and population of the Turkish Empire.

OR SKIN CANCER.

For seven years I suffered with a cancer on my face. All the simple remedles were applied to alleviate the pain, but the piace continued to grow, finally extending into my nose, from which came a yellowish discharge very offensive in character. It was also inflamed, and annoyed me a great deal. About eight months ago I was in Atlanta, at the house of a friend, who so strongly recommended the use of Swift's Specific that I determined to make an effort to procure it. In this I was successful, and began its use. The influence of the medicine at first was to somewhat aggravate the sore; but soon the inflammation was allayed, and I began to improve after the first few bottles. My general health has greatly improved. I am stronger, and able to do any kind of work. The cancer on my face began to decrease and the ulcer to heal, until there is not a vestige of it left—only a little scar marks the place where it had been. I am ready to answer all questions relative to this cure.

Atlanta, Ga., August 11, 1889.

I have had a cancer on my face for some years, extending from one cheek-bone across the nose to the other. It has given me a great deal of pain, at times burning and itching to such an extent that it was aimest unbearable. I commenced using Swift's Specific in May, 1885, and have used eight bottles. It has given the greatest relief by removing the infammation and restoring my general health. W. BARNES.

For many years I was a sufferer with cancer of the nose, and having been cured by the use of S. S. I. feel constrained by a sense of duty to suffering humanity to make this statement of my case. With the fourteenth bottle the cancer began to heal rapidly and soon disappeared, and for several months there has been no appearance of a sore of any kind on my nose or face, neither is my nose at all tender to the touch. I have taken about two dozen bottles S. S. and am soundly cured, and I know that S. S. S. effected the cure after every known remedy was tried and had failed.

I had heard of the wonderful cures of swift's Specific, and resolved to try it. I commenced taking it in April, 1884. My general health was much improved, yet the cancer which was in my breast continued to grow slowly but surely. The bunch grew and became quite heavy. I feit that I must either have it cut or die. But it commenced discharging quantities of almost black, thick blood. It continued healing around the edges until February, when it was entirely healed up and well.
